

Okia launches a website for its HDA technology

Hong Kong-based eyewear company Okia has launched its new website devoted to its patented HDA technology.

The site www.hdacetate.com has been created to communicate the numerous facets of this technology and features the latest HAD frames images.

To improve the site further, Okia will introduce an interactive function named 'Design your own', that will allow customers, designers and journalists to create their favourite HAD frame.

